Paul practices in the firm's Litigation Department, where he works on securities litigation, deal related litigation, white collar criminal defense, insurance recovery, and pro bono matters.

During law school, Paul interned at the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York, where he assisted on such complex litigations as a multi-billion dollar civil suit against a large financial institution and a massive Medicaid fraud suit in New York State. He also clerked at a boutique firm in New Jersey, working on litigation and arbitration matters.

Paul is highly proficient in German.
